

SNAPSHOT: LGBTQ ADOPTION AND FOSTER CARE PARENTING IN PUERTO RICO

Across the United States, approximately 3 million lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, or queer (LGBTQ+) Americans have had a child, and as many as 6 million American children and adults have an LGBTQ+ parent. Among LGBTQ+ adults under 50 living alone or with a spouse or partner, 48% of women and 20% of men are raising a child under 18. Over 25% of transgender adults report being parents.

Puerto Rico

Adoption Figures:

- In 2021, of the more than 391,000 youth in foster care in the U.S., 2,135 of them resided in Puerto Rico, 416 of whom were waiting to be adopted at the end of the fiscal year.
- In 2021, 129 children were adopted from the foster care system in Puerto Rico.

Adoption and Foster Care Laws:

- While Puerto Rico previously banned adoption by gay and lesbian people, in 2015, following nationwide recognition of marriage equality, courts began issuing adoption orders for same-sex couples. In 2018, the Governor signed a law updating Puerto Rico's adoption laws to be in line with Obergefell.
- Puerto Rico allows single adults to petition to adopt. 31 P.R. Laws Ann. § 544.
- Puerto Rico law provides that married couples and domestic partners may adopt jointly. 31 P.R. Laws Ann. § 544. Puerto Rico statutes do not address second parent adoption, which is the adoption of a child by an additional parent without the first parent losing parental rights and without requiring the additional parent to be a spouse or domestic partner.
- The law of Puerto Rico also permits a spouse or domestic partner to adopt the child of their spouse or partner via stepparent adoption. 31 P.R. Laws Ann. § 541.
- Puerto Rico has a regulation that explicitly protects youth in the child welfare system from discrimination based on sexual orientation and gender identity (Regulation 8319, Article 18).
- Puerto Rico does not have a statewide ban on so-called conversion therapy. However, the former governor of Puerto Rico, the Hon. Ricardo Roselló, in 2019 signed Executive Order EO-2019-16 that partially banned conversion therapy for minors on the island after the House of Representatives decided to vote no on Senate Bill 1000, which would have made this practice illegal.

Across the United States

More than 33,000 same-sex couples are raising adopted children in the U.S.

- While LGBTQ+ parents are raising children all over the U.S., the highest proportions of LGBTQ+ parents raising children reside in Mountain West, Southern, and Midwestern states – areas with the fewest protections for LGBTQ+ families.
- The states with the highest proportions of LGBTQ+ parents raising children are Idaho (44%), Utah (40%) and Oklahoma (38%).
- Same-sex couples raising children are seven times more likely than their different-sex counterparts to be raising adopted or foster children.

EVERY CHILD DESERVES A FAMILY ACT

Approximately 5,500 same-sex couples are raising foster children in the U.S. Same-sex couples raising children are seven times more likely than their different-sex counterparts to be raising foster children. Many states are silent on the issue of LGBTQ+ people fostering and adopting children, which leaves these families vulnerable to the potential bias of individual agencies, child welfare professionals, and family court judges at the local level. Further, although LGBTQ+ youth are disproportionately represented in the child welfare system, many states lack state-level non-discrimination protections or affirming policies for LGBTQ+ youth in care.

- Only half of the states in the U.S. have laws or regulations that explicitly prohibit discrimination on the basis of sexual orientation or gender identity.
- Only ten states ensure that individuals interested in acting as foster parents are not discriminated against based on their sexual orientation; fewer provide protections based on gender identity.
- In contrast, thirteen states – Alabama, Arizona, Kansas, Michigan, Mississippi, North Dakota, Oklahoma, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, and Virginia – allow an agency to turn away prospective foster and adoptive parents who do not meet the agency’s religious requirements. In at least nine of those states this is true even where an agency receives taxpayer funding. Advocates successfully defeated attempts in several other states to pass similar discriminatory laws.
- Married same-sex couples should have the same right to foster and adopt as married different-sex couples. Even with nationwide marriage equality, however, LGBTQ+ people and same-sex couples in some states may still face foster care and adoption laws, policies, or practices that permit agencies to continue to discriminate against them.
- Twenty states allow unmarried LGBTQ+ people to petition to adopt their own children through second-parent adoption.
- Approximately 1 in 3 foster youth over the age of 12 identify as LGBTQ+.
- Over half of all states have no laws or regulations specifically prohibiting discrimination for LGBTQ+ youth receiving foster care and adoption services; most states provide no explicit guidance about transgender youth in the child welfare system.
- Only three states have passed laws or regulations that require placement of transgender youth in facilities based on their gender identity.
- Only six states have laws or regulations in place requiring LGBTQ+-inclusive cultural competency training for child welfare staff and/or foster parents.
